THINKING OUT LOUD

By H. M. L.

On the whole we believe that Uncle Sam has come through the war and is entering upon this disturbing peace in excellent form. The after effects of war, as we scan the pages of history, are just about what we might expect. On one point however, we find that the cost of living has not advanced nearly so much as it did after the Civil War, nor after World War I. Probably we have OPA to thank for some billions that the American people have been able, not to save, but to pay out in taxes.

Like a lot of other people we are bit confused by the OPA problem. To be or not to be, calls for a clean cut decision. Congress, nor the folks at home seem unable to make such a decision. The OPA served well during the war. Almost anyone will agree to that. But why is it serving so badly in peace? Basically, the answer seems to be, it is too big a job for men who have had no especial training in price fixing of items that 135 million people need. It is rather colossal. Too huge for the brain of Chester Bowles to grapple with, and we doubt if anyone else exists in that great population, who could master the job.

For instance a veteran lumberman told us the other day that flooring for building homes was very hard to get. Why? Well, the ceiling price on lumber from which flooring is manufactured is higher than that for flooring. Nothing could be sillier than that. And as we all know the ceiling price of butter fat is higher than butter which is made from it. Another silly one. If Mr. Bowles would bend his mighty brow over a few of these everyday conundrums that harass 135 million people we could forgive him some of the human frailties that mar his administration of OPA.

But no such luck. In despair of making any reforms in the institution of OPA, the House of Representatives, to all practiccal purposes, has tossed it out of the window, everything that is, save the rental department. Now comes the counter blast of the outraged tax payers who are beseeching the Senate to undo the mistake of the House. The Senate being human, will probably shirk a thoroughgoing study of the OPA to find out what's wrong with it. The principle, of course is fine. Almost anybody will agree to that. But it is the way it works that gets all us down. Will the senate produce a bill for continuing the OPA that will force the heads of it, to stop stomping on all our toes.

The OPA, as it stands, is working less effectively that the Prohibition Act. It is creating bootleggers all across the nation. By paying more than the OPA ceiling and selling at even higher prices, thousands of black marketeers are making money off the rest of us. To police the OPA and force all citizens to observe its rules would require a mighty army of detectives and law enforcement officers, who would need to be at least as smart as the black marketers. That's what Chester Bowles would like Congress to do give him more money to spend in salaries for more policemen.

We can't know how many policemen would be required to shut off the illicit higher-than-ceiling trade, but we imagine it would be a goodly number. Now, when we have supported this army, paid out of taxes, would we be any better off in the pocket book than if we had abolished OPA, and let prices soar skyward. There is a question for Solomon in all his glory. How high would prices soar? What would be the affect on low income groups? We hear something like $30 billion is in hands of low income group just waiting for a chance to be spent. How long would it take for the boom to spend itself, the country settle down to hard work again? Chester Bowles paints a horrible picture of catastrophe, but how clairvoyant is he?

Our spot in this controversy is right in the middle. We believe that there are items such as food, clothing, building materials, and rents, on which price controls should be maintaine until supply overtakes demand. But on autos, household appliances, radios, and gadgets, we are extremely doubtful. On the essentials of existence. it is well enough to protect the people who are already on a bare sustaiance level. But we believe that after the first buying spree in new cars and radios and gadgets, spent itself, prices would quickly settle down under the competitive system to levels in accord with the living standards of the great majority.

BEST FISHING ON OPENING DAY NEAR AT HAND

Just as the old timers predicted, the best fishing at season's opening yesterday was around Nevada City and Grass Valley and westward. Elton Tobiassen who was out about four hours picked eight handsome rainbows of Dry Creek that flows within a short distance of the McCourtney Road. the trout were 8 inches long.

In Bed Bug Smith Canyon many fishermen had a rendezvous with the fighting rainbows and some few got a limit. Few flies were used but the fish were hungry for worms and salmon eggs.

A number of fishermen arrived in their own planes to land on Gilmore Field and headed for the nearest streams. Rock Creek, Dry Creek, Little Deer Creek, Deer Creek and Wolf Creek were populated early in the morning by youngsters who often brought in a mess of gamey fish. Schools in both cities were closed by consent of the boards of trustees. No boy had to play hooky this year. It was a holiday in both cities for old and young. The Grass Valley Chamber of Commerce printed special signs for all those merchants or professional men, who wished to respond to the lure of May 1st. It was to the point: "Gone Fishin" and was attached to half the business house doors in Grass Valley.

In Nevada City no special arrangements were made, but Broad and Commercial Streets, as has been the case for many years, had a Sunday aspect on May 1st.

WOMAN LOST IN WOODS WHILE FISHING FOUND

Mrs. Hortense Bjornstal fishing with her husband, Ola Bjornstal, on Deer Creek yesterda wandered up stheam from him about 10 a. m. and making a detour to avoid boulders and brush, left the stream and became lost in the woods.

Intent on his fishing Bjornstal did not miss his wife until some time later. Then he began a frantic search that lasted for hours. Late in the afternoon he went to the Cascade ditch tnders camp and spread the alarm by telephone.

Undersheriff William Woods organized a seach party. Mrs. Bjohnstal was found about 6 p. m. in a deep ravine in the vicinity of Sailor's Flat on Greenhorn Creek, Her clothing had been torn to ribbons. She was in an exhausted condition. The searchers at intervals shouted. They fonl her when they heard a faint cry from the ravine. She was 5 or 6 miles from the point where her husband last saw her. With her was the faithful family dog which had followed her when she became separated from the husband.

Bjornstal is a retired master sergeant now employed by the Nevada Irrigation district. The couple have resided in Nevada City two years.

FIFTY YEARS AGO

NEVADA CITY 50 YEARS AGO

Mrs. Flora B. Holbrook who had been visiting in Los Angeles for the benefit of her health had to leave there on account of bad weather.

Fred Sandow a nephew of Richard Sandow, arrived here from England to make his home in this city.

Fresh strawberries were on sale at the Union Fruit Store for ten cents a box.

The wedding of Charles R. Gray and Miss Viola Ragon took place on April 29th at the home of the bride's parents on Ragon Flat near this city. Rev. J. Sims of the Congregational Church performed the ceremony. Miss Clara Van Ben Thusen was the bridesmaid while Clifford McCutcheon held the honors of best man.

The ladies who were spending their time and energy lecturing throughout the nation for the cause of woman suffrage, Miss Elizabeth Upham Yates and Rev. Anna Shaw, arrived in this city and were met by a very prominent committee. During their two days stay they were guests of Mrs. I. J. Rolfe, Mrs. W. H. Crawford and Mrs. H. Stansfield. At the first meeting held at the Nevada Theatre, Miss Shaw was the intrepid speaker to test the strength of the average Nevada City male on the suffrage question. The Rev. Anna Shaw addressed the packed house the second evening and directed her attention to the various intellectual and moral qualities which women possess in a greater degree than men and which gives her greater fitness for voting intelligently, and she affirmed that man had placed women in the same class with idiots, insane and paupers.

Overhead: As Mrs. A—— left the theatre after having heard Rev. Anna Shaw's lecture on woman suffrage she accidently encountered Mr. A—— who was dropping from one saloon into another to discuss the weather and other liquid matters. "Such a beautiful lecture," she told him, "it will surely do some good. That woman will be canonized in years to come." "Canonized," echoed the intelligent voter, "she should be canonized now. It's the best use we could make of our canon to blow the lot of them off the earth. Running around here like crazy fools enticing women out of their homes such nights as this. Now you hustle home and get to bed. You have to get up early in the morning for Mrs. C—— wants you to go there to work."

Total rainfall for the season to date was 57.36 inches.

BANK HONORS MRS. EDITH DAVEY ON RETIREMENT

As the window shades of the Nevada City Branch, Bank of America were drawn closed on Tuesday afternoon, April 30th, it meant to those in the bank something more than the usual afternoon routine of closing the doors so that the staff could conclude the work of a busy day. For it also synchronized with the departure from the bank of one of its oldest and most valued staff members, who has endeared herself to the hearts of many bank patrons as well as to those of her associates through her gracious and kindly personality,, Mrs. Edith G. Davey.

Not often is it given to a young woman to start her business career for a firm with whom she remains in continuous employment for thirty-one years. Yet that is the exceptional case with Mrs. Edith Hoskins Davey, who joined the staff of the old Nevada County Bank in 1915, after a brief previous employment with the Pierce Bosquit Abstract and Title Company. It was a small bank staff in those days. only the two Rector brothers, and Mrs. Davey's present boss, H. A. Curnow, but they all assisted each other with their difficulties and Happy Family was the watchword. Of that group only H. A. Curnow still remains in the bank to regret the resignation of this "little sister" of former days and to look back in grateful appreciation of the exceptional personality and competent tenchnical ability of Mrs. Davey.

As a compliment to Mrs. Davey, the Bank of America staff, Nevada City tendered her a farewell dinner at Monte Vista Inn Tuesday, April 30th. At the close of the dinner Mr. H. A. Curnow presented to Mrs. Davey a handsome ladies purse, the gift of the staff members. Mr. Curnow spoke feelingly of the long years of banking association of himself and Mrs. Davey and expressed unstinting praise of her conscientious and devoted attitude toward her work and her employers and paid high compliment to her exceptional business training.

Many local friends of Mrs. Davey are regretful of her decision to leave the bank, but realize the propriety of seeking an easier manner of life and enjoying the beautiful home recently erected in Grass Valley by herself and her husband, William Davey. "I may take a trip east to visit some old friends," said Mrs. Davey, "but I am not sure just what my plans may be. It will be so strange not to go to the bank every morning—it will take me some time to get used to it."

E. M. Rector, a former major officer of the Bank of America and of its predecessor, Nevada County Bank, spoke in most laudatory terms of Mrs. Davey: "We all hate to see Mrs. Davey leave the bank, to which she has been devoted so many years but know that she owes it to herself to take a long and much needed rest. As a young girl she joined our staff just three years after my old friend, Horace Curnow. We all more or less grew up in the banking business together, and learned to appreciate each other's virtues and to forget our faults. She is a splendid character. I have never known a more conscientious and devoted associate in my business career than Edith Davey."

Manager Curnow states that two new employees are being added to his staff at this time. Mrs. Arlene Harless will take care of the secretarial work formerly done by Mrs. Davey, together with other duties. Mrs. Harless is no stranger here, having lived in Grass Valley and Nevada City at different times in the past. She is an accomplised young woman in typing, stenograhpy and accounting. Additionally Miss Bernice May Ribble is being transferred from one of the Oakland branches, in appropriate recognition of her having gradmated from Nevada City high school. Her present duties will be those of junior bookkeeper.

As now constituted, the bank staff will consist of. H. A. Curnow, manager; C. C. Carveth, sss't. cashier; Miss Teresa Alaria, pro. ass't cashier; Carl Hieronimus;, John Finnegan, Mrs. Edith Cartoscelli, Mrs. Winifred Lightord, Mrs. Arlene Harless, Miss Bernice May Ribble.

Nevada County Share Motor Taxes $6,559.32

State Controller Thomas H. Kuchel today announced the apportionment of $4,699,602 of motor vehicle license fee (in lieu tax) collections to the cities and counties of California covering the nine months period ended March 31. One half of this amount or $2,349,801 went to the 38 counties and an equal amount to the incorporated cities of California.

The amount apportioned to cities and counties said Kuchel is allocated to them individually in the proportion which the population of each such city or county bears to the total population of all such cities and counties in the state.

The County of Nevada received $6,559.32 of the total and the following amounts were paid to its incorporated cities: Grass Valley $2,175.31 and Nevada City $923.93.

A total of $9,103,670 in in-liep taxes was collected during the nine months period. From this amount Controller Kuchel was required by law to withhold and transfer to the state's general fund.

Ban On Mussel Eating Ordered

A quarantine order forbidding the gathering of mussels from the California shore, including the bay of San Francisco, is issued by the State Board of Public Health effective May 1. Local health officers are instructed to post placards in conspicious places warning the public of the quarantine and are charged with enforcement of the order.

Only exception to the order which is effective until October 31 is the gathering of mussels for fish bait. Such mussels must be processed with salt to render them unfit for human food and the containers in which they are placed must be labeled "for fish bait only. Unfit for human consumption."

Reason for the board action which is taken annually is that during the summer months a minute organism the gonyaulax, is present in California waters. When this organism is ingested by mussels the bivalves become poisonous.

Only 32 In Each Thousand Babies Died In 1945

The chance a California baby has of surviving the first year of life has increased during the last 40 years. Nevertheless, preventive public health measures can force the infant death rate still lower. Dr. Milton L. Halverson state director of public health said in commenting on the observance of Child Health Day, May 1.

In 1945 32 of every 1000 babies born alive died during their first year of life. In 1906 the infant death rate was 159 per 1000 live births.

The 1945 infant death rate of 32 per 1000 live births is an average for the state as a whole. Dr. Halverson pointed out and in some counties the rates are much higher. The approximate range in rates is from 15 to 58. In general fewer babies die where there are well organized local public health services.

About one third of all babies who die under one year of age and two thirds of all who die under one month were prematurely born. Better prenatal and obstetrical care and adequate community provision for hospitalization of mothers and infants and for the care of prematures will help reduce the number of infant deaths from this cause.

Communities are urged to study local facilities for the protection of infant and child health and to make child health day a starting point in seeing that community resources are adequate.

Robot Boats To Dip Up Bomb Test Water

LOS ALAMOS, April 25—Radio controlled boats may be used to gather water samples from the explosion area of the Bikini atoll atomic bomb tests immediately after the missils are set off, says Dr. Norris E. Bradbury director of the University of California Los Alamos scientific laboratory.

The boats, varying in size from 36 to 45 feet in length, would be equipped with radio controlled pumps. They would be sent into the explosion area immediately to obtain water samples for scientific analysis Bradbury said the plans to use the boats are not yet definite.

Meanwhile preparations of the university laboratory scientists who will play a major role in the joint army-navy operations "Crossroads" are nearing completion. An advance party has already been at Bikini for a month helping supervise installations.

The majority of the laboratory scientists participating in the tests will leave for Bikini this week. A few will remain at the laboratory to complete their work and will be flown to Bikini shortly before the tests begin.

for a Lovely Lady

YOUR MOTHER. The thoughts, the love, the tenderness your heart bears for her is best expressed in a gift of graceful loveliness — a gift of personal note, that she, always economical in her own desires, would perhaps hesitate to purchase.

Such gifts.....and expressly emphasizing Mother's Day—are featured in seasonal array at the Bon Allure, Grass Valley.

Practical gifts, such as—

DRESSES, SUITS, COATS, MILLINERY
—and a bit of this and that in hard-to-get Barbizon Lingerie

As a help—we may know her size and coloring partialities. We maintain a complete customer-index which is growing daily.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Willie Lives in an "Almost" Home

Willie Wells is one of many G.I.'s stationed overseas to keep the Peace. Not to forget them, let me describe a snapshot that he sent.

It's the inside of a house where Willie's quartered . . . except the boys have fixed it up as much as possible to look like a typical American home. They've hung up pictures of their families, cultivated a stray puppy for a house pet.

And the snapshot shows Willie and his buddies sitting by their hearth, drinking friendly American beer and reading the home-town paper. "Almost like being back in Clover Corners," says the caption.

From where I sit, that "almost" packs a lot of meaning. Thousands of our boys are still overseas, trying to make their quarters homelike, even to the pet dog and the friendly glass of beer. Let's not forget to write them often—remind them that home is waiting—and it's not an "almost" home either.
